

Annual Timpanogos Hike Set Aug. 2-3

By Susan Halford
Universe News Writer

Dr. Edmund Hillary conquered Mount Everest "just because it was there." BYU students have this same challenge, and a weekend of activities as reasons for joining the annual Timpanogos Hike August 2-3.

This year's activities will begin with a picnic Friday at 8 p.m. in Aspen Grove, followed by Provo Canyon.

Represented by the Summer School student body officers, the program will be a portrayal of the legend of Timpanogos.

LEGEND TOLD
The Timpanogos legend concerns "Red Eagle," "Utahna," the young Indian maiden who was sacrificed on the rugged mountain.

The myth ends as the hearts of the dead merge into the Great Heart of Timpanogos, an actual heart-shaped stalactite in Timpanogos Cave.

The legend was originated by the late Dr. Eugene L. Roberts who instigated the annual Timpanogos hike in 1912.

Variety numbers, sing-along music, and the awarding of "Timpanogos Sticks" will conclude the program.

The Timpanogos Sticks are presented to honored guests — the participant from farthest away, the oldest person present, the largest family and others.

Those wishing to spend the night near the mountain may remain at Aspen Grove; they must provide their own sleeping bags and food.

EARLY START

Climbers may begin the hike any time, but the majority are expected to start climbing at 5 a.m. Radio operators and first aid men will be stationed along the trail for emergency assistance after that time.

A shelter at Emerald Lake will provide a resting place for hikers before they make the effort to climb the final 2,000 feet beyond the timberline to the summit.

Officials expect 5,000 hikers to begin and approximately one-half that number to reach the summit. Summit badges will be given by the Provo Chamber of Commerce to those who reach the top of the mountain.

GLACIER RIDE

After reaching the summit from which three Utah counties may be viewed, hikers will slide down the several hundred yards of glacier to reach the descent trail.

Extensive plans have been made for security, crowd control, parking and highway safety. The Utah Highway Patrol, Utah County Sheriff's Dept., BYU Alpine Club and BYU Security have been assigned.

According to Dr. Israel Heaton, chairman of the event, adequate parking will be available. No permit is required.

For the trek which will last approximately eight hours, hikers should take their own light lunch and a cup.

HEAD COVERING

Dr. Heaton suggests that appropriate clothing include a light jacket, sturdy shoes, an extra pair of stockings and especially a head covering to avoid sunburn.

Hikers are cautioned to avoid leaving the trail because of the danger of rolling rocks injuring those below.

Cash and photography merchandise awards amounting to $50 will be given for the best pictures taken of Timpanogos and last year's hikers. Photos will be judged in two classifications—scenic and human interest.

Narcotics Seminar . . .

Cops Raid BYU 'Pot' Party

by Dennis Crandall
Universe News Writer

Week the BYU campus was rocked by the electro-psy beat of "hippie" music.

The pungent smell of marijuana pervaded the scene of the "happening."

The Green House, a house near the Towers owned by the University, was the site of the "tea party."

The point of a three-day narcotics seminar produced for the Central Peace Officers Association.

Helm, President of the CU, presided over the convalescence.

Hosted by Captain Sven Nielsen and Sgt. Wes Sherwood of the Utah Security Office in cooperation with University Housing and Physical Plant.

"BUST" PRACTICE
The purpose of the planned exercise was to give law enforcement officers in Utah County some experience in the mechanics of a narcotics arrest.

and the revelers at the party were officers and stenographers from the Utah Security Office.

Many of them were veterans of actual narcotics raids during the past year.

On the first night of the seminar, police officers from throughout the County met in the Wilkinson Center for lectures and films. Dale Jeffs, Utah County Attorney, and Frank Butterworth, Deputy Attorney, lectured on current narcotics statutes in Utah.

Captain Sven Nielsen, who has worked on the vice squad with the Los Angeles Police Department, lectured on narcotics identification and on current narcotics trends and Lt. Forshee of the Provo City Police Department spoke—in conjunction with a slide presentation—on the problem of marijuana.

FIELD PROBLEMS

On the second night, the group was divided into teams to participate in the field problems. Sgt. Sherwood produced and directed this part of the seminar.

The "action" was so true-to-life that a transient "hippie" from Detroit who, by a coincidence, saw the party and tried to join the fun, only to be identified and handled by Security.

The field problems took the teams all over the city. This was planned in order to give participants some experience in covert surveillance, talking and teamwork.

SELL "GRASS"

One "case" began when Sgt. Hardy of BYU Security, dressed in sandals, love beads and his wife's wig, sold some "grass" to a contact in Provo's Memorial Park. He was accompanied by Lt. Kelsch, who looked like he had just gotten off a D&RGW freight car.

The clandestine meeting caused a great deal of consternation among the many uninformed picnickers who were in the park at the time. After some information was obtained from a "reliable source," a warrant was secured and the raid on the Green House was prepared.

The first team to "bust" the "pot party" was met by a darkened house, wierd music and scrambling bodies.

HARD WAY

This group learned the hard way about proper custody of prisoners as one "hippie," a former BYU athlete who is now a Security officer, jumped over a six-foot ledge with his hands cuffed behind him and fled.

One couple at the party—carefully chaperoned by official observers—assumed a somewhat compromising position to test the officers' reaction. These "situations," frequently involving juveniles, occur regularly at parties of this type.

In the opinion of those in attendance, the seminar was a complete success. In addition to the valuable experience, each participant obtained a feeling of cooperation and teamwork was increased among the law enforcement agencies in Utah County.

Former Editor Vies For National Honor

Linda Hansing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hansing of Clearfield, will represent Utah in the national contest to select the Young Career Woman of the Year. The contest, sponsored by the National Business and Professional Women's Clubs, is being held in Minneapolis, Minn., from July 19 to July 26.

Linda was selected at the June state convention and was awarded an expense-paid trip to the national contest.

BYU GRAD

She graduated from Clearfield High School in 1963 and from BYU in 1967. She is presently doing graduate work at BYU in Special Education and Home Economics.

An active participant in student affairs, she was a member of the Daily Universe staff and served as Editor-in-Chief during the summer of 1965.

After joining the staff of KBYU-TV that fall, she became director and producer of two weekly shows for the station.

During the summer of 1967, Miss Hansing was a graduate assistant with the Learning Disabilities

Y Gets Three Awards In Nationwide Contest

BYU has won several awards against national competition for its efforts in promoting development programs, capital campaigns, and solicitor training.

Sponsored by the American Alumni Council, a first place was given to BYU in solicitor training for a brochure (prepared by Herbert McLean and Lance Turner) and a 20-minute film strip for group showing, written by Mr. McLean and drawn by Stewart Heimdal.

The brochure was sent this year to volunteer solicitors throughout the U.S. to obtain financial help from individuals as well as from business organizations.

Honorable mentions were given to BYU in the capital campaign (single) division and the development programs (campaign) division.

The awards were announced last week by the American Alumni Council during the national convention in Miami, Fla.

Eight-Stake Fireside Slated

Joe J. Christensen, director of the LDS Institute of Religion at the University of Utah, will be the speaker at the second summer eight-stake fireside Sunday at 9 p.m. in the de Jong Concert Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

Christensen is noted as a dynamic speaker with a great appeal to college students, according to LaVar Cardon, chairman of the event.

The fireside is sponsored by the BYU Third Stake, of which Fred A. Schwendiman is president.

The two boys who were sliding down the bannister in the Wilkinson Center Sunday can pick up the key to their handcuffs in the Universe office.

ENCOUNTERS INTERPERSONAL

WEEKEND WORKSHOP at Mt. MAJESTIC LODGE, Brighton

What are the potentialities of our human existence? This weekend workshop hopes to create an atmosphere in which an integrated and meaningful exchange between participants will produce an increase of human relations skills. The participants will have the opportunity to share concerns, ideas, feelings, and themselves as they explore some opportunities for personal growth.

Man's interpersonal encounters are essentially social encounters. We become what we are through relationships with people, and by utilizing these interpersonal relationships, we can actualize our potential. The group is a laboratory of life and is of particular value in helping group members gain a clearer understanding and overview of their strengths, personal resources, capacities and potentialities. Group support, stimulation, encouragement, and sharing in responsibility can help a fellow member to take a constructive approach to the identifying and utilization of his potentialities.

Leave: 4:00 p.m. Friday, July 26
East Entrance, ELWC

Return: 4:00 p.m. Saturday, July 27
